OGDEN, Feb. 22.—Ogden's business men have taken the first steps to organize a Business Men's association for mutual protection and the maintenance of the city's commercial and manufacturing in city's commercial and manufacturing interests. Last night the large hall in the city building was filled to overflowing with enthusiastic citizens, who realize that something must be done, some concreted effort be made to ward off impending evils to the material interests of the city and vicinity. Rousing speeches were made advocating the exclusive patronage of ultah manufacturies and home industries. A committee was appointed to jorof Utah manufacturies and home industries. A committee was appointed to formulate a plan for the organization of the association, to report at another meeting to be held next Tuesday night. This afternoon tecommittee met in the mayor's office and after three hours hard work adopted a plan and named the officers of the prospective association. The report will not be made public until Tuesday.

Washington's Birthday passed off very quietly in Orden, no public demonstration being made. Business was practically suspended and no public offices were open. Numerous private entertainments are being given tonight. "Clouds' was presented at the Grand by the Second Ward Dramatic company. The finishing touches are being put on the Grant avenue school building, and the structure will be ready for acceptance by the board of education on Friday. It is a magnificent pile.

The Deseret ministrels will receive a royal reception at the Grand tomorrow night, the sale having already been large. It must be confessed, however, that the Ogden public has not the faith in Salt Lake's dramatic and musical organizations it had previous to the visit of the Choral. It rests with the ministrels to obliterate every doubt, and they will do it.

AN ALLEGED SHORTAGE.

The Emery County Court Made an Unexpected Discovery.

PRICE, Feb. 22.—Loud rumors are afloat that the only discovery made by the court at their recent special session was that the retiring Republican-Independent county treasurer is short a considerable amount of legal tender, though this discovery was not what was desired. The ostensible objects of the session were to obtain a little pocket money, so desirable in these hard times to most men, and if possible to find some hook in the county clerk's account on which to hang the Recorder—W. Ever hear of the Encyclopedia Britannica? Probably. It not, any literary man or librarian will tell you that it is universally accepted as the standard Encyclopædia in the English language. It ought to be. It was originally published in 1771, and since that time has passed through nine editions, the latest of which was compiled fifteen years ago. In its lifetime of a hundred years and more it has gathered to itself the choicest work of the best writers of each successive generation, sparing no expense to secure from every expert in every department of human knowledge the best he was capable of giving. On the preparation of its various editions it has spent more than three millions sterling, and the cost of the latest or ninth edition alone was not less than ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

But the Encyclopædia Britannica has three defects which detract from its usefulness in an American family. In the first place, part of its latest edition is now fitteen years-or half a generation-behind the age. In the next place, it makes no biographical mention of any persons who were living when it was compiled, no matter how famous they may have been; General Grant, even, is left out. And, lastly, the Encyclopædia Britannica is an English work, compiled for the use of Englishmen in England, and, as is only natural under such circumstances, it treats all subjects of peculiarly English interest exhaustively, and those of purely American interest with far less than the subject warrants. Three pages to an English County and a column or less to an American State is about the proportion.

The Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica

Contains every subject the Encyclopædia Britannica does, with the above defects carefully amended. The entire work has been revised to date, and a series of ninety-six new maps inserted; over 4,000 new biographies have been added, including every person of prominence in the entire world, and the Encyclopædia has been Americanized by reducing the space allotted to peculiarly English subjects and by enlarging that devoted to topics of purely American interest. ane result is, we honestly consider, the Best Encyclopædia in the World today, and that is saying a great deal.

GIGHT CENTS DAILY WILL SECURE YOU THIS GREAT WORK.
